Study points out SRV quake zone

By JOHN KEARNS

A major earthquake on the San Andreas Fault would cause extensive damage in Contra Costa County, according to Donald Protzman of Diablo Valley College.

Protzman, a consulting geologist and instructor at the college in Pleasant Hill, says a major quake on the San Andreas Fault would cause quakes along the many small fault lines in Contra Costa County.

Energy from the San Andreas is presently being "dissipated" along the minor fault lines in the area, he says.

The Hayward Fault, running along the east side of San Francisco Bay, is moving at the rapid geologic rate of about 1 inch each year.

Pressure from the San Andreas is dissipated through rock strata and causes movement in outer fault lines.

The California fault system is like a large plate of shattered glass, says Protzman.

"Imagine a large plate of glass broken by the edge of a machete. You would see the large cut, but also all the minor breaks."

The major cut, the San Andreas Fault, is one of three major surface fault lines in the world.

Another major surface fault line exists on the east coast of Africa (the African Rift) and the other in the Middle East (the Palestine Rift).

Many other major fault lines lie under the oceans but all have one thing in common: they form the edge of huge land mass "plates" floating on the earth's molten inner core.

"The earth is a huge heat producing engine," says Protzman, who adds that land masses float on the molten rock, which is denser.

Heat currents in the molten material cause the land masses, "plates," to move.

The San Andreas Fault forms the edge of one large plate that forms most of North America.

In the Pacific Ocean, another large plate meets the North American plate at the San Andreas Fault line.

Where the two plates meet, the energy created by the earth is concentrated.

The Pacific plate moves under the North American plate, and drops at an angle of about 45 degrees.

The pressure caused by the meeting of the two plates eventually is released in the form of earthquakes, the abrupt slipping of the adjoining rock masses.

The San Andreas Fault has not directly released pressure since the major quake of 1906.

Nearby fault lines have been moving at a fairly gradual rate, however.

If the San Andreas Fault should experience a quake, pressure would be released through the entire network of fault lines in the area, causing quakes on each one.

Protzman estimates that there are about 300 minor fault lines in the county.

Many have never been officially recorded but they can be spotted from the air at about 5,000 feet.

They are given away by changes in topography, vegetation and in visible fissure lines.

The county has about eight major fault lines.

If a quake were to occur on the San Andreas Fault in the area of Hollister, local fault lines would be greatly affected, says Protzman.

Many homes and structures built on loose soil would probably collapse, but structures built on solid bedrock would probably survive the quake.

The major earthquake expected on the San Andreas Fault is "about 15 years overdue," says Protzman.

During the 1906 earthquake, the chimney on John Muir's home in Martinez collapsed.

The chimney, one of three in the house, was located on the edge of the house facing a spur of a local fault line.

The San Francisco quake had caused the local fault line to slide.

Other fault lines run through Contra Costa communities.

The Franklin Fault runs through the center of Walnut Creek, the Southhampton Fault travels through Pleasant Hill and the Concord Fault runs through Concord.

Two fault lines are in the Antioch area and another major fault line runs near Clayton on the east edge of Mount Diablo.

A major earthquake zone has been discovered in the San Ramon Valley where the Sunol and Calaveras faults join.

The San Ramon Valley, from Walnut Creek to Dublin, is considered an area of seismic activity, says Protzman.

Buildings and homes on loose, sedimentary soils will "shake like they're on jelly," says Protzman, and will probably collapse.

The safest structure to be in during an earthquake is a wooden structure, he says.

Wooden homes "give" more than brick or stucco structures and present little danger from falling objects.

Brick and stucco structures are dangerous due to the threat of falling debris they present, he adds.

Chimneys could be expected to fall during a quake.

And now only three

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The Alameda County Board of Supervisors narrowed alternative sites for the proposed valley government center to three Tuesday — two in Pleasanton and one at Santa Rita.

County Administrator Loren Enoch was directed to prepare cost estimates for the three sites, including acquisition costs for the two Pleasanton sites. One of those is located on Sunol Boulevard near the Pleasanton Civic Center and the other is across Sunol Boulevard on the hill overlooking Pleasanton Elementary School.

Supervisor John Murphy of Pleasanton opposed the flat land Sunol Boulevard site because he believed it would be far too expensive and because it lies between two sets of railroad tracks, is adjacent to the city sewer treatment plant and industrially zoned land. Supervisor Tom Bates voted against both the hill site and the Santa Rita location.

The architectural firm of Rateliff, Slama and Caldwalader had reviewed seven potential sites in the valley for that government center, which will eventually include a court building, administration center, auditorium and pre-trial detention facilities, and had recommended the Sunol Boulevard site as being most centrally located (according to population) and easily accessible.

Two weeks ago, the supervisors toured the seven sites. The four that were eliminated by the board Tuesday were the Staples Ranch, the Alameda County Fairgrounds, and sites on Hopyard Road and Stanley Boulevard.

Enoch said a report on the acquisition and improvement costs would be completed by the end of March.

The board also adopted an ordinance which establishes a county-wide Consumer Affairs Commission. Bates, who abstained in the voting last week because he did not believe the selection procedure for members of the new commission was specific enough, voted in favor of the ordinance on Tuesday.

"This is a positive step in the right direction," he said, although he promised to continue working to give the commission a separate staff and to further delineate commission appointments to insure the broadest possible representation.

Supervisors also transferred duties and functions relating to county education to the County Board of Education. In the past, the supervisors themselves have had the final say on budgets and property taxes and those duties will now be assumed by the board of education.

City council gives Zone 7 another chance on rates

PLEASANTON — The city council voted Monday night to give Zone 7 one more chance to correct what it considers to be a grossly unfair schedule.

Specifically, the council is asking Zone 7 to revise its connection fee schedule "to reflect the difference in use rather than a fictitious difference in maximum meter capacity" and to refund "excess" fees paid by Pleasanton homeowners in the last two years amounting to nearly $200,000.

The council made a similar request to the Zone 7 Board of Directors in November that was rebuffed. If this request receives the same response, the council reserved the right to withhold any further payment of connection fees until the "excess" fees have been refunded.

The issue behind the dispute is meter size. Zone 7 bases its connection fees on the size of the meter. In 1972, the City of Pleasanton switched the meter for single family homes from a five-eighths inch size to a slightly larger meter size. The switch was made to aid residents in some older areas of the city to maintain adequate water pressure.

Because the meter is larger than the five-eighths-inch meter, however, Pleasantonites have been charged a higher connection fee than residents in Livermore and Dublin, although the city claims the amount of water used is not significantly greater.

According to the zone's most recent fee increase, homeowners in Pleasanton will be paying 50 percent more for their water connections than those elsewhere in the valley.

The report presented to the council Monday night included comprehensive tests, which the city believes proves its point that the slightly larger meter does not significantly increase the amount of water used. City Attorney Ken Scheidig said that report may influence the Zone 7 directors because it is "substantiated".

If the zone agrees to refund the $192,000 the city claims is an "overpayment, city officials will arrange to make refunds to the 860 homeowners who paid that higher connection fee. —

Water bills to go up in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — Water bills will go up an average of $1.60 a month following approval by the city council Monday night of an interim rate increase.

Councilman Bob Philcox emphasized the council's action was necessitated by higher rates charged the city by Zone 7, Pleasanton's chief supplier of water.

In addition, Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker told the council, the city is now purchasing 66 per cent of its water from Zone 7 compared to 34 percent in 1970.

The remainder of the city's water comes from its own wells, and while that water is free to the city, it is much harder in quality than the Zone 7 water.

"I think most people would be willing to pay a little more for softer water," Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire said, since softer water should result in a lower water softener bill.

'Good Times Parade' draws fire

A repeat on that "Good Times Parade" which made downtown Pleasanton something of a radio celebrity in the spring of 1974 has sparked a new debate over the merits of that festivity. KNBR Radio is suggesting a May 3 revival for the parade, but Pleasanton forces are less than united over the prospects of again hosting that event.

Last spring the first - ever "Good Times Parade" attracted visitors to Pleasanton, including a score of hot - air balloons which filled the valley skies as a prelude to the big Main Street caravan. (KNBR was later to claim "over 100,000 people saw the parade," but the actual figure was considerably less than that.)

There was little doubt that the event was a social success, and brought Pleasanton many hours of broadcast time over KNBR, before, during and long after the parade. Critic's ventured that the makeup of the parade was something less than an artistic triumph. A few merchants complained that parade watchers jammed their store fronts, but never got inside to do any of the promised buying.

That's the same concern voiced Tuesday when a Chamber of Commerce luncheon gathering heard a new suggestion to bring "Good Times" back to Pleasanton, Saturday, May 3.

"That could be the weekend we schedule the Pleasanton Rose Show," Warren Harding cautioned the group. He noted that "it would be impossible" for exhibitors taking roses to First National Bank that same Saturday morning to reach the bank and park their cars, during the height of the parade.

Renee Rice, another downtown merchant, voiced her unhappiness with the proposed Saturday date, adding that "most local stores might just as well close for the day" if the parade is held on a Saturday. A suggestion that the parade be moved to a Sunday is apparently rejected by KNBR because of the overtime that would have to be paid to their broadcasters and engineers who last year spent most of that day in Pleasanton, broadcasting from the front porch of the Pleasanton Hotel.

Mayor Pro Tem Ed Kinney is a major booster of a 1975 parade, just as he was the prime mover of that first show. He told the chamber that Pleasanton Jaycees "are ready and willing" to handle a 1975 repeat of "Good Times."

Yet another conflict on that May 3 weekend is the Pleasanton Art Show, a popular spring event in the downtown area. Chamber leaders promised to meet with Art Show representatives, and with other downtown merchants including the sponsors of the Rose Show, to "see just how much enthusiasm there is for the parade, and exactly what are the objections," as chamber manager Chan Henderson explained it.

Henderson also recalled that "some of our members feel the chamber and the community are already deeply committed to the Maid of Pleasanton Pageant, which comes in late May, as well as the Fair Parade in late June, in addition to the Rose Show and the Art Show."

Ray Young was among those parade boosters present at the chamber's Tuesday discussion although one Jaycee official noted that "We haven't even been informed of the date yet, and our board has yet to approve our participation."

and who suggested that the art show is secondary to the appeal of the KNBR parade.

Ted Mann, whose Franklin Savings and Loan Community Room has been host to the Pleasanton Art Show, suggests that "the Art Show, the Rose Show and the Street Faire be held the first weekend in May; then the Good Times Parade could be held the last weekend in May along with the Maid of Pleasanton Pageant. That way there is no conflict, and one event helps the other."

Amador trustees restore $74,381

DUBLIN — Amador Valley High School district trustees Tuesday night restored $74,381 to the contingency reserve fund, including $19,815 to Dublin High School and $19,000 for maintenance and grounds supplies.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Services Doug Rose said the district is following the concept of allowing each local school through its budget advisory group to set priorities for the funds.

Thus, Amador Valley High, for example, has $12,974 budgeted for instructional supplies of the $14,834 restored to the contingency reserve. Foothill High has $8,096 of $11,196 earmarked for instructional supplies. $15,847 of the Dublin High total will go to capital equipment.

Trustees also acted on a resolution supporting the Murray Elementary School District revenue limit increase measure. Murray is seeking an increase of $150 over their present revenue limit.

The resolution notes that MESD was able only to grant a three per cent salary increase to staff while the cost of living went up 8.2 per cent. The measure is on the March 4 ballot.

In other business, the board set a special meeting for Feb. 18 to exchange bonds for monies to cover Phase II construction at Foothill High School.

A small slice of land in front of Amador Valley High was dedicated to the city and reports were given by the graduation task force, food services and English instructor Pat Padgett of Foothill High.

Mrs. Padgett pointed out profiles of four "typical" entering freshmen, showed samples of their writing skills, noted reading scores for speed, vocabulary and comprehension and listed the number of weeks spent developing various skills.

It was recommended that future curriculum include an enlarged elective program, improved diagnosis and evaluation of students, improved teacher methods and work toward the goal of a coordinated K-13 English curriculum.

Fair board plans new projects

PLEASANTON — A horse overpass and a livestock judging arena at the County Fairgrounds are expected to be advertised for bids at Tuesday's board of supervisors' meeting.

Fair Board members were given a plan review last night of the livestock arena. It will be constructed of steel supports, 80 by 50 feet in dimension, and be open air in the livestock barns' area.

Both projects are to be completed prior to this summer's fair.

Joe Schenone, concessions committee chairman, reported a net increase of $53,742 in concession revenues. Lee Hall, fair association manager, advised directors that those bidding for the bar and cafeteria concessions would have to include a bid for all the bars on the grounds.

In other business, Hall said local architect Jack Bras is drawing up preliminary plans for the first phase of Palm Way, to be expanded as the main entryway into the grounds. Bras has submitted a cost estimate of $4,750 for plans and specifications.

The credential committee recommended an admission increase calling for all those between 6 and 15 to pay 50 cents.

Franklin Savings seeks sign

PLEASANTON— Perhaps the time has come, as the saying goes.

At last, Franklin Savings and Loan is hoping that is the case.

For the third time in three years, that Main Street financial institution is attempting to gain city approval for a time and temperature sign on its property.

That application will be reviewed by the Design Review Board Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Pleasanton Justice Court.

In the past, Franklin's application was denied because the board felt the property was too small for the sign and because they feared it might prove distracting to drivers on Main Street.

Keeping an eye out for traffic

Getting over to the bus stop on Hopyard Road, at West Las Positas, takes some doing. Here, adult and two children hurry to catch a "U" line bus while keeping eye on four lanes of traffic. City of Pleasanton says traffic lights are to be installed by end of month. Getting to outbound bus stop is particularly difficult during early morning commute hours and evening traffic homebound. Lights at Hopyard and Valley have also been funded and are due to be installed at same time. (Times Photo)

SR quake zone extends south

where the valves controlling gas and electrical circuitry in their homes are located, says Protzman.

"The quake causes damage, but it's the other things, the facilities we have, that kill us."

Fires and exploding gas lines are major destructive forces following earthquakes.

Earthquake "resistant" buildings are being constructed, but there are no earthquake "proof" buildings, Protzman says.

The Bank of America building in San Francisco is built on four large steel balls which are expected to balance the building in the event of a quake.

Other precautions people can take are to tie down hot water tanks and that may be on pedistals and other high appliances in houses or garages.

The ability to predict earthquakes, through studies of pressures and rock strengths, are improving radically.

Scientists are also experimenting with releasing "controlled" earthquakes through the injection of water on fault lines.

By releasing pressure gradually thorough controlled quakes, scientists hope to avoid major earthquakes.

The quakes that occurred recently in Southern California are caused by a "pressure point" on the San Andreas Fault, where it bends westward.

The bend, says Protzman, causes pressure on the fault like "a kink in a hose."

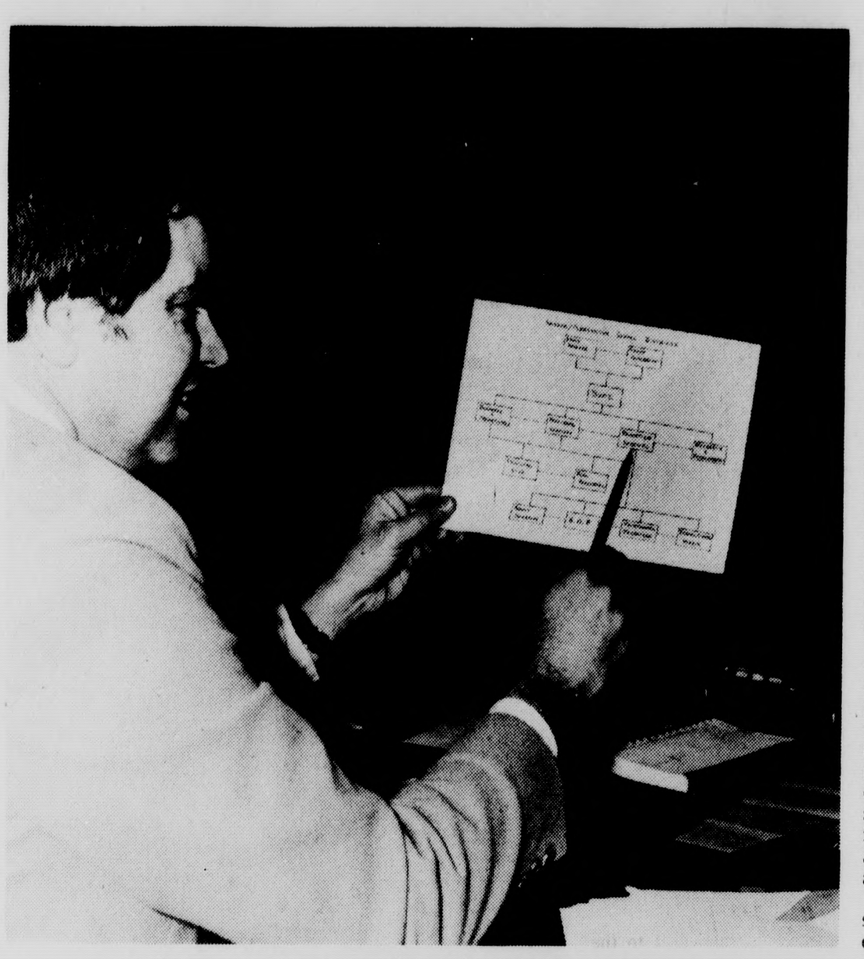
Even with scientific advances in the ability to predict earthquakes, many variables make prediction an inexact science.

Rainfall, gravitational pull and many other factors can contribute to earthquakes, says Protzman.

Eventually scientists will probably be able to predict quakes with some certainty, he adds.

Besides preparing for potential earthquakes, county residents can do little.

"What's built is built," says Protzman, "and we can't do much with buildings that are up."



New organizational setup

Dr. Bruce Newlin, Amador - Pleasanton schools superintendent, points out makeup of new administrative organizational chart outlined to Pleasanton school district trustees this week. Structure shows four sub - superintendent positions, including business and operations, personnel services, education services and research and development. The positions will be filled by Doug Rose, Carl Krause, Neil Sweeney and Dr. David Carlisle. The second sub - superintendent level includes the elementary and secondary principals and pupil personnel services.

Census to ask more than population

PLEASANTON — In addition to the more mundane questions that will be asked during the special census, city officials will also attempt to determine if Pleasantonites would support bond issues for a new sewer plant and for parks.

The city is allowed to ask 10 questions of residents when the census is taken beginning March 6. Officials hope the special census, which will cost approximately $12,000, will turn up 400 to 500 more residents than the state tota show, thus increasing the city's share of state subventions.

Monday night, the council reviewed those 10 questions and moved to replace one dealing with the "educational level attained by the spouse or other pricipal member of the household" with a question regarding support for a new city sewage plant.

There is also a question dealing with support for a proposed park bond and the other eight refer to occupation, place of employment, educational level of head of the household, race, type of housing and income.

Councilman Bob Philcox said he did not understand the value of some of the proposed questions and added he would like to ask questions that would gauge the citizens' support of city policies.

Mayor Floyd Mori disagreed, saying, "The purpose of the census is to get data, not opinions." He added he agreed with Philcox' concept but said, "With a census, you have to have relatively clear - cut questions."

At Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire's urging, the council agreed to remove sexual connotations from the questions, replacing words such as "housewife" and "workmen" with neutered terms.

The council also approved a holding tank for Jerry Bindi's proposed French restaurant on St. Marys Street and awarded a contract for metering facilities at the Mocho Pump Station to Del Monte Electric. Their bid was $27,000.

The Times inadvertently identified the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory as giving its employes an extra day of vacation over the Memorial Day weekend. Actually, the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory is offering its employes that day, not the LLL.

Bicentennial plans meshing

A growing list of local and regional events designed to help salute the nation's 200th birthday will be reviewed by the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission in session Wednesday, Feb. 19. The commission meets at Laney College third floor conference room, 900 Fallon St. in Oakland.

Marie Cronin, the Dublinite who heads up the county group, has set forth a busy calendar of festivals and pageants being organized by community clubs and schools during the next 17 months. Projects endorsed by the commission include "Lectures on Contributions of the Negro Before and After the Revolutionary War," and "Spanish California Bicentennial Performing Arts Company."

City of Hayward reports its bicentennial plans are well underway, to include dedication of the new County of Alameda Hall of Justice as a major 1976 event in that city.

Mission San Jose reports that a festival is being planned in that community for June 8, 1975. Livermore Bicentennial Committee will host Dr. Ira Lee Hinkley, the Pleasanton resident who represents Chabot College on the County Commission, at a Feb. 12 meeting set for the basement of the Carnegie Building, 7:30 p.m.

County Board of Education to meet

The Alameda County Board of Education will consider approval of a Special Schools budget for 1975-76 at their Thursday meeting.

Board members are scheduled to convene at 7:30 p.m. at Manuel White School in Union City.

A report of progress on negotiations with the Certificated Employees Council and California School Employees Association is also scheduled.

Danville thinking about banning town parking

One East Bay hamlet thinks it has the answer to its downtown traffic woes. Danville is proposing to ban all parking on its busy Hartz Avenue, the village's main thoroughfare.

The proposal comes from Mike Flynn, chairman of the Danville Parking District. It has received mixed response from the community's business and civic leaders. However most Hartz Avenue merchants agree that the county's plan — calling for widening that route to four full lanes by condemning a great deal of frontage property — would "ruin us."

The Contra Costa board of supervisors voted in 1966 to start condemnation proceedings leading to the widening of Hart Avenue. About two - thirds of the necessary property has been acquired, the county reports. Some existing stores extend as much as ten feet into the new right - of - way, and would have to be abandoned, the owners report.

The proposal to ban all on - street parking could save the existing business houses along Hartz, but would also "discourage most of our customers," the merchants state. An alternative plan would be to convert Hartz Avenue into a "downtown parking mall," with all through traffic to be diverted onto Railroad Avenue and Front Street. Yet another plan would convert all main Danville steets into one - way traffic carriers.

(None of the Danville plans seem to embrace the "answer" being put forward in Pleasanton, where the installation of signal lights along Main Street is seen by some as that downtown hub's best traffic bet.)

100 jobs available in county

Alameda County Bureau

Alameda County is seeking unemployed citizens to fill 100 public service jobs.

The available jobs include work as clerks, laborers, gardners, security officers, administrative aides and others.

Anyone who has been unemployed for more than 30 days or who has been working part-time is eligible to apply. Preference will be given to those who are heads of households and who have been unemployed the longest, and to Vietnam veterans, welfare recipients, manpower trainees, minorities, ex-offenders and those over 45 years of age.

The deadline for applications in Feb. 21. Those interested should contact the Alameda County Personnel Department at 874-5342 or the Alameda County Human Relations Department at 874-7466.

Consolidation to have two public hearings

The consolidation of two courts within the Amador - Livermore Valley will be the target of public hearings called by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors. Legislation adopted by the state assembly and senate, and effective January 1 of this year, allows the Pleasanton Judicial District and the Livermore Municipal Court to merge into one muni court system.

The county must provide funds for any new court facilities, and current thinking is apparently to expand the Livermore court to allow two judges to sit there, but also retain the Pleasanton court where Judge Wm. Gale now sits. The detail of that program has yet to be finalized, it is reported.

The long - term plan is for the county to build a new court house to serve all of the valley, either on ground adjacent to the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, or close by the Civic Center in Pleasanton.

The public hearings on the court consolidation are set for March 4 and 11, 11 a.m. at the supervisors' chambers in Oakland.

MIOSD gets schedule together

Music In Our Schools Day (MIOSD), which is scheduled for March 13, will be preceded in the Murray Elementary School District by a month - long round of activities.

The Cronin School Band will perform for Elective Day on Feb. 13 at 1 p.m. and five days later the Wells Band will entertain the Dublin Lions' Club at 12:45 p.m. at the San Ramon Country Club.

On Feb. 24, the Nielsen Band will put on a program and on Feb. 26, the Lions' Club will hear from that same aggregation at 7:30 p.m.

The next evening at 7:30, the Donlon Parent Faculty Club will hear from the Donlon Band.

Due to the fact that each school does not have a fulltime music teacher, MIOSD will be celebrated on different days throughout the week in the district.

The purpose of MIOSD is to emphasize the importance of music — especially for those students who are not involved in performing aspects — at the school level.

"Search For Talent" looking for new stars

DUBLIN — Want to meet the next David Frye?

Or be able to say you saw a Barbra Streisand before she made the big time?

Then join the Dublin - San Ramon Exchange Club's Monday evening preliminary judging of the group's "Search For Talent."

One - hundred - eight applications have been received for this year's fete, held in conjunction with the 11th annual Dublin Spring Festival.

Monday's 7:30 p.m. contestants at the Pleasanton Elementary School Auditorium include 14 primary division (ages 6 - 10) and 17 junior division (10 - 15) applicants.

Two additional preliminary contests will be held, Feb. 24, and Mar. 3, followed by the finals Mar. 14.

Finalists will be judged at Dublin High School in conjunction the Spring Festival.

The Feb. 24, contest is limited to the remainder of the junior division, some 35 applicants, while Mar. 3, will see the senior division (ages 15 - 19) competitors.

The audience is not limited to stage - door Charlies and backstage mothers, either, according to Bill Foster, committee chairman.

On the contrary, he emphasized, the public is more than invited

A mere $1 covers all four preliminaries. Tickets should be purchased at the door.

This year's entrants include dancers, vocalists, and instrumentalists, plus a magic act, Randy Rice and Rick Lund, billing themselves as "Pockets, Inc."

Talent? Search no more. Leonard Wong, 15, has promised to do 40 impersonations , but hopefully not in the four minutes alloted each contestant.

Cooperation?

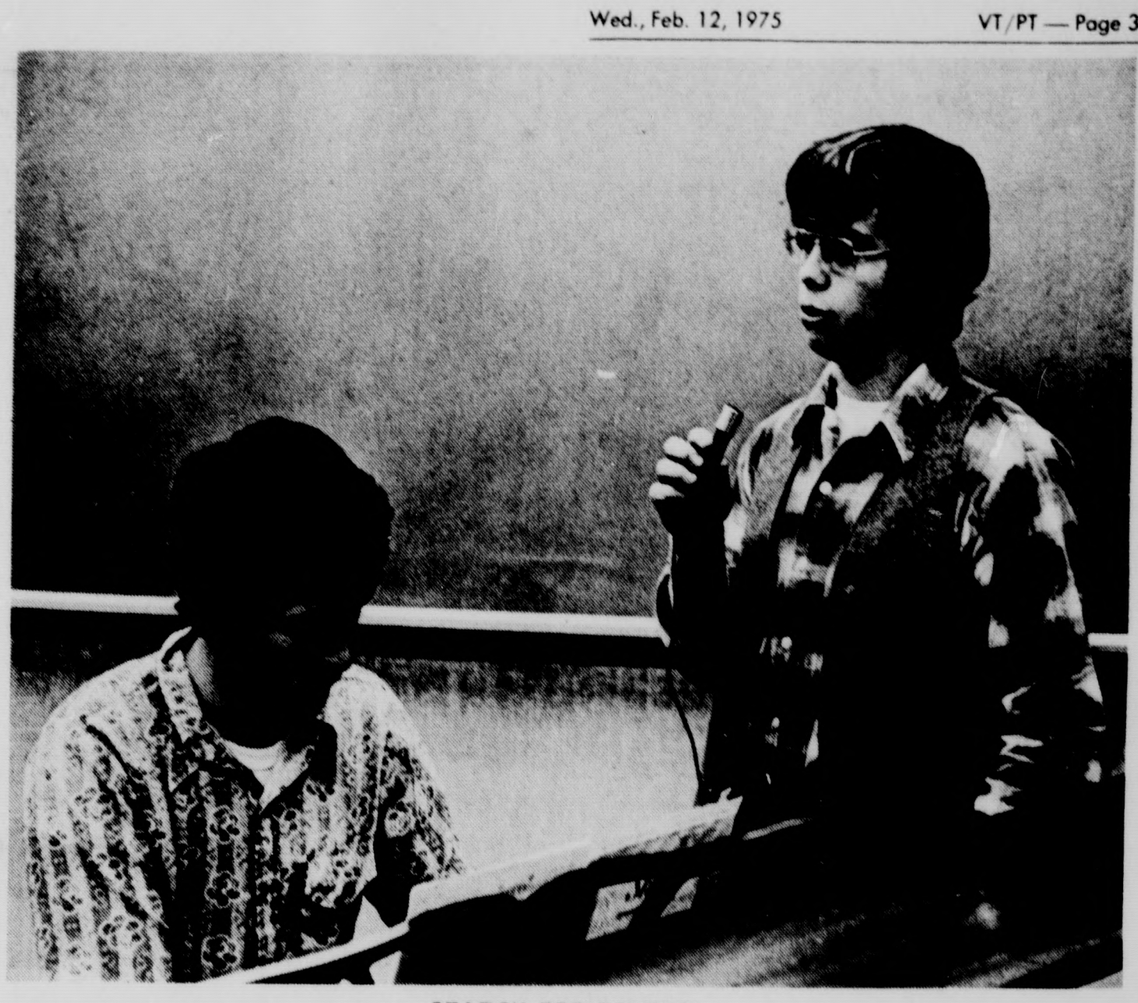
The Murray School District has changed its previously conflicting concert to Beb. 25, Dublin High School.

All will not end next month, though.

The winners will go on to a divisional competition held in the Valley in May, drawing from two Exchange Club divisions, and bringing in talent from Ukiah to Monterey and Stockton.

Winners in May advance to the California District Championships which bids talent from California, Nevada, and Hawaii.

"Those who make it to the district competition have really made it," according to Bill Foster. "They'll be approaching to become professional."



SEARCH FOR TALENT

Vocalist Brian Williams, 17, will compete in the Exchange Club's "Search for Talent." Dublin High School junior Mike Crawford, 17, accompanies Brian.

New program underway

Livermore's Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 7265, will sponsor a "Home Security Program" in conjunction with the Livermore Police Department. Detective Dave Hollander shows Post Commander John Rogers the vagaries of secure locks in preparation for the Wednesday, Feb. 19, presentation. The public is encouraged to attend the free program, which includes refreshments and door prizes. The presentation is aimed at burglar - proofing homes, and includes discussion of means of entry, locks, windows and neighborhood awareness. The meeting will be held at the VFW Hall, Fifth and L Streets, Livermore.

Vineyard center hit by systematic burglaries

LIVERMORE — A consistent, systematic burglar hit four businesses in the Vineyard Shopping Center for $1,000 in cash and goods.

The bold burglar broke into the center's shops, just across from Police Headquarters, by removing louvered windows from above the doors.

Kenneth Dasher, owner of Kary's Fabric's, reported the theft of $400 - $500 in cash plus $50 in goods, including antique gold and silver crosses and chains, and several pairs of scissors.

Dasher discovered the burglary Thursday morning when he opened for business.

Blete's Shoe Repair reported the loss of $209 in goods and a the proceeds from a March of Dimes container.

The thief lifted five leather shoulder strap handbags with flower designs, one red, black, and blue patchwork design suede shoulder strap purse, 13 brown and black wallets and 15 coin purses.

Owner Herbert J. Blete, San Leandro, told police the burglar was unsuccessful when he pried - off the face of the cash register; it was empty.

A $190 8-track stereo and speaker were stolen from Rich's Cleaners, according to Margaret L. Galligo, store manager, while Virginia Meddus, owner of Ginny's House of Style, reported the theft of $90 in cash and equipment, including a hand - blown hair dryer and an AM - FM radio.

The receptionist's desk at Ginny's had been ransacked, according to police, and a March of Dimes container stolen.

In all the burglaries the thief entered by removing the louvered windows and dropping to the floor, and, with the exceptio of Rich's Cleaners, climbed out the same way by using a chair as step - ladder.

Town teams of our yesteryears

At a time when public schools are hard pressed, and the secondary systems in the big cities are having to contemplate the loss of most competitive sports, this "Pleasanton Team" seems to tell us something. The year is 1908, the setting is probably the Pleasanton Grammar School field just off First Street (there being no high school in the Amador Valley in that era). This rugged football squad was most likely one of those "Town Teams" which were popular then, providing spirited competition among such as Livermore, Pleasanton, Niles and Haywards. The players were probably high school seniors and other localites in their young 20's.

The town's businessmen sponsored these teams — as well as providing uniforms for the town band, and sundry other self - help entertainment. Peter Madsen (far right) was the team's manager, aided by Joe Secada, who stands on the left. Team members who might kindle local memories include Jim George, the father of Tom George, and Arnold Abrott, whose son is today a Kaiser executive, still living in Pleasanton. "Fido" is the team mascot, a necessary part of all the Town Teams of that busy and self - sufficient era.

The photo is from the files of Jim Georgis.

Betty Nostrand decries ala carte lunch program

PLEASANTON — A candidate for the Pleasanton Elementary School District board says the ala carte lunch program at the elementary level should be revaluated as to its nutritional content.

"I feel we must regulate the type of food purchased by the students," says Betty Nostrand, "and make sure we are offering them choices that are nutritionally sound. I feel the district should eliminate all foods filled with preservatives and chemical additives both of which have been shown to cause behavior and allergic reactions in many children. The district should reinforce with a practical daily lesson in the ala carte line what students are learning in school about the good groups and necessary nutrients."

Mrs. Nostrand claims the ala carte program originated "because fast-growing children in Grades 6-8 could not get enough to eat in the regular Type A or tray lunch offered by school cafeterias. Much of the food was thrown out uneaten. If they wanted more food of the kinds they liked, an additional Type A lunch had to be purchased. The ala carte idea offered students a chance to purchase as much food as they like to fill them up."

Adds Mrs. Nostrand, "Unfortunately, getting 'filled up' and providing the body the nutrients it needs, are not the same thing. Kids, through apathy or habit, tend to carbohydrates and sugar. Although these foods are needed by the body in small amounts, protein, vitamins and minerals are what keep the body going and provide materials for building healthy cells of all kinds."

Lenten season begins today

DUBLIN — Lenten season at Lutheran Church of the Resurrection will begin on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 12, with a Sacrifice meal at 6:30 p.m. followed by Holy Communion for confirmed members. Child care will be provided.

Following devotions by the Reverend Percival S. Lovseth, members will be served a meal by the ladies of the A.L.C.W. under the direction of Mrs. Wesley Pipal and Mrs. Henry Wittrock.

Tight job market makes it tougher for handicapped

LIVERMORE — "There are a lot of organizations around devoted to good works and humanitarianism.

"Why can't they help my kids?"

That's what Warren Thompson, the local coordinator for work experience for handicapped students, wants to know. "His kids" are the several dozen students with disabilities who, even more than their normal schoolmates, need work experience so they can become productive members of society after they graduate from high school.

Unfortunately for the handicapped, the Livermore Amador Valley is oversupplied with more fortunate teens ready and eager for that part - time position in the storeroom or kitchen or cash register.

Employers have their own ideas about possible insurance liability or other problems concerning a handicapped worker, and haven't investigated the many advantages and even possible tax breaks available to them by hiring the disabled.

But the greatest advantage of all, says teacher Thompson, is the satisfaction of giving a handicapped student a break in a society which so often overlooks those in need.

"I'm a former businessman and personnel administrator myself," says Thompson. "I know what it's like to be an employer, and I feel it's misinformation that is keeping Valley employers from considering hiring one of my students."

He says sadly that local service groups have actually "turned me down flat" when he asked to speak about his work experience project at one of their meetings. The program is also apparently the stepchild of the Livermore school district, which downplayed Thompson and his efforts during the planning for Vocational Education Week, currently being observed.

The father of a handicapped boy, Thompson says a person with a disability is frequently just as able to do certain tasks as anyone else.

The students he serves through the Livermore Unified School District work experience program are placed in businesses throughout the Valley. Prospective employers may contact him at 447 - 3330 weekdays for further information."

Negotiations for land stalled until reappraisal

SAN RAMON — Negotiations for a land trade with Seeno Construction Co. will continue after the old Intermediate School site has been reappraised, according to Mike Wahlig, San Ramon Homeowners Association president.

The association decided at its last meeting to ask that the site be reappraised with consideration given for eventual sewer connections.

The original appraisal — sans sewers — is thought to be too low.

Additional input from citizens of the Dublin — San Ramon area is being requested to produce a solution to the truck parking problem on Kimball Avenue.

It was suggested at the meeting that the County do a better job of defining the travel lanes by painting a white line down the middle of the road to guide traffic.

A previous request by the association to the County requesting a study of speeding along Pine Valley Road with the possibility of "Stop" signs as control was denied, but the County is now asking the SRHA to make further studies before submitting its request.

Suggestions on both matters are being solicited by Rich Shuller, 828 - 6969.

Livermore youngster slightly hurt in crash

LIVERMORE — A 16-year-old Livermore youth was being held for observation in Valley Memorial Hospital, Monday, following a Saturday night auto accident.

The young man, whose name was withheld, was the passenger in a 1964 Pontiac driven by David F. G. Coache, 20, 167 N. Livermore Ave., when Coache apparently failed to negotiate a turn at Duke and Madeira Ways and plowed into a parked Pontiac before careening into a planter box.

Coache told police he applied the brakes as he approached the intersection, but, because they were disc brakes and it was raining, they didn't work.

Coache was cited for felony drunk driving, and the youth was taken to VMH complaining of head and chest pains.

He is listed in satisfactory condition with a concussion and internal injuries.

Jon Ulrech; Walter Whiteford; Brian Woolrich; Kurt Worley; Chris Zaremba; Stephen Fraser; T.R. Ulrech; Joyce Worley.

Gary was assisted by his wife Margie, and daughter maureen (nicknamed Beanie). Also assisting were George Orloff and his daughter Natasha. Dale Birdsall manned the skeet range and Bill Caldwell, range safety officer, was in the control tower.

A new course will be offered soon. Gary says to sign up for the Hunter Safety Course at Dom's Surplus, 56 South Livermore Avenue; or at Arnew's Custom Saddlery, 153 North L Street; both in Livermore.

A REGISTERED P.I.T.A. Trap Shoot will be held on Feb. 16 and 17 at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club. So get your favorite trap gun out, oiled up, barrel cleaned and come out. A LEFT - WING CITIZENS group called "Handgun Control Committee" has brought suit in federal court demanding that the Consumer Produce Safety Commission restrict the sale of ammunition under the hazardous substances act.

Quite obviously, this federal law, the Hazardous Substances Act was meant to insure safe handling of dangerous liquid chemicals, gases, violent poisons, etc. Like so many laws, it can be interpreted in a much broader sense than the law makers ever intended. The anti-gun fanatics have grasped at this vague law as a means to force gun control upon the American citizens through an administrative rule.

Lawrence Kushner, vice - chairman of the Consumer Produce Safety Commission has stated that "the practical effect of this requested ban on handgun bullets, if successful, would be a virtual ban on handguns."

Members of the Consumer Product Safety Commission realized that congress did not intend handgun bullets to be included within the scope of their jurisdiction and originally refused to consider the demands of the "Handgun Control Committee."

On Dec. 19th, 1974 U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. Flannery ordered the commission to consider the proposal. Thus, it turns out that the greatest single danger now facing those who wish to retain their right to keep and bear arms is not to be found in the Halls of Congress, but in a rather obscure federal district court.

Write to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commisson, Office of the Secretary, 1750 K. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20207, Attention Richard O. Simpson and voice your objection to this type of back door ammunition restriction.

Dublin burns San Ramon

Exploding for 23 points in the fourth quarter, Dublin High sweated out a narrow 65-61 EBAL basketball victory last night at home.

The win improves the Gaels' record to 6-2 in league, while the Wolves remain winless in eight tries.

With the score tied, 26-26 at halftime, San Ramon opened a five-point margin in the third quarter, out-scoring Dublin, 21-16.

Jim Hogeboom and Joe Fisher were responsible for that burst, as they combined for 11 points.

Doug Adams did more than his share for Dublin, hitting for 12 points in the third period.

Adams and Fisher finished the game with 21 points apiece.

Randy Swiers came off the bench in the fourth quarter and turned two steals into easy baskets to pull Dublin into the lead.

Swiers and Troy Roberson connected eight points in a row to put Dublin on top, 57-51, with 4:20 remaining in the game.

Adams and Rick LaPerle hit for two more baskets, while Brad Blake and Don Krueger hit one each for San Ramon.

Chuck Hatheway's one free throw, and a drive by Swiers finally wrapped the game up for Dublin, handing the Gaels a 64-57 lead with 49 seconds left.

Although they shot an incredibly cold 11 for 32 from the floor, Dublin managed to hang on to a 26-26 halftime tie.

The Wolves started the game as they though they were 7-0, not 0-7. They bolted to an 8-2 lead early.

Hogeboom led that assault with six points, all from five feet along the baseline.

With Troy Roberson converting two steals into easy baskets, Dublin managed to pull back within two, at 10-8 by the end of the first quarter.

Big George Pehanick led San Ramon back to a 16-8 advantage with a pair of free throws early in the second quarter.

Brad Blake recently up from the junior varsity, threaded the Dublin defense for an easy score to give the Wolves their largest first half lead, 16-8.

The Gaels' Johnson took over at that point and reeled off five unanswered points on a free throw and a pair of follow shots., to pull Dublin within three at 16-13.

With Jerry Puertas leading the way with 18 points, Dublin's junior varsity romped to an 82-56 win over San Ramon.

Ed LaPerle chipped in 16 for the Gaels, and Jim Boulware added eight. John Mendoza helped Dublin with six baskets for 12 points.

Jeff Herman and Brad Hallock each pumped in 16 points for San Ramon.

Pokes ride the Stangs

Times Sports

MIKE ZAMPA, editor

Monte Vista head coach Gary Yates said after his team's first loss to Livermore in January, that when the two teams met again, he'd be willing to give Ed St. Clair his points and concentrate on playing team defense from there.

Last night St. Clair got his points and the Cowboys knocked over the Mustangs again, 53-45, in Danville.

The 6-5 marksman scored 11 field goals and 12 of 14 free throws for 34 points.

The teams were tied, 43-43 as late as 1:57 left in the game. Cowboy guard Ted Wood broke the deadlock with a 20-foot swish, and added a pair of free throws 25 seconds later to neutralize Paul Resler's charity toss at the 1:37 mark.

From there it was up-and-back foot racing until Wood was fouled deliberately by Mustang giraffe Scott Trantina. Both free throws were good, and the Cowboys held a 49-44 advantage, with 31 seconds to play.

The Cowboys moved to a 28-23 lead to open the second half as St. Clair hit a 10-footer and two free throws, complemented by Kurt Groth's lay-in with 5:30 left in the period.

The Mustangs, still playing credible defense all around, came back to tie it at 32-32 with 1:10 left in the quarter, when Ron Lowe canned a 15-footer.

Livermore's fast break was creating havoc, but the effects were going in Monte Vista's favor. The Mustangs showed good rebounding at this juncture, and held the visitors at 34-34 for after three periods.

But the sloppy tempo soon turned in favor of the Cowboys. After two free throws 12 seconds into the fourth quarter, St. Clair added a tip-in, and the Pokes rode for awhile on a three-point cushion.

The teams left the floor tied, 22-22 at intermission.

St. Clair literally kept the Cowboys in it, scoring 16 in the first half.

The Mustangs, on the other hand, showed balanced offense, as Paul Ressler, (six) Ron Lowe (four) Scott Trantina (four) and Bob Gregor (four) shared the scoring.

St. Clair's 15-foot jumper at the buzzer brought the Cowboys to within one at 10-9.

Tim Jenkins scored 12 points to lead Livermore's junior varsity to a 37-30 win over Monte Vista.

Kevin Jones had 12 for the Mustangs, who led at halftime, 21-16.

Monte Vista girls drop Livermore

Monte Vista High drew even with Livermore in EBAL girls basketball yesterday, scoring a 48-27 win over the Cowboys in Livermore.

Both teams post 7-3 records in the conference.

Linda Silva scored 15 points to pace the Mustangs, followed by teammates Laura Fumagalli with 12, and Karen Fischer, who had 11.

Peggy Baker of Livermore was high scorer with 17.

In other action, Dublin crushed San Ramon, 48-27.

Sue Day paced the Gaels with 15 points. JoAnne Callander followed with 14, and Michelle Ortuno added 13.

Foothill ran its record to 8-2 with a 30-13 drubbing of Granada in Pleasanton.

The Falcon defense, led by Maureen Tierney, Carrie McNatt and Jackie Fleming, shut out the Matadors in the second and fourth quarters.

With substitutes playing, Foothill ran off a 14-0 fourth quarter to blow open the contest. Thela Lewis and Stacey Damerval each scored eight points for the Falcons.

Straw Hat blown away

Mike Benapfl and Pete Houck combined for 16 second half points to help Dan's Place to a 46-38 win over Straw Hat Pizza in Livermore recreation basketball Monday.

Dan's trailed at halftime, 21-19.

Houck's explosion left him with 14 points for the game, and Benapfl added 12. Teammates Tom Rein and Don Meyers contributed eight and seven points.

For Straw Hat, J. Chubb and Jeff Faraudo each had 10 points, and Ron Keynoldson and Don Bryant each scored eight.

Team Shop rolled over Nazarene Church, 47-34, despite 20 point by the Church's Chuck Woswell.

Kevin White paced the winners with 12 points.

Lane Fabian poured through 19 points leading McGregor's National Reserve Life past the Celtics, 39-29.

John Wheaton was the next best McGregor's shooter with eight points.

The Celts' Pete Tolman scored 13.

The Native Sons received 14 points from John Gardner and defeated the Ancient Ones, 43-35. Mike Pratt scored 10 for the losers.

Pros remain unbeaten in PAL

The P-Town Pros ran their record to 5-0 in Police Athletic League Boys Basketball last week with a 36-30 victory over the second place Celtics.

After one-half of the schedule, the Pros are on top of the Senior A League by one game.

Forwards Larry Rooks and Mike Chandler paced P-Town to its fifth victory with 13 and 11 points, and Dan Juchan added eight. The Celtics relied on Ken Whitaker's seven points, Dennis Miller's six, and five by Ralph Lopez.

Chris Betts scored 14 points in a Junior contest, leading the Knicks past the Lakers, 25-15. Pat McCloud had five points for the Lakers.

The Gunners roared to a 10-0 lead, and defeated the Bucks, 18-10. Stan Cutters had seven points, and Dave Deshler added five. Mike Benemelis had five, and Scott Pina, three for the Bucks.

The Warriors upset the first place Bulletts, 23-13. Mike Hitesman caught fire with 14 points. Kevin Bush and John Michell scored four each for the losers.

Junior standings — Bullets, 4-1; Warriors, 3-2; Knicks, 3-2; Gunners, 2-3; Bucks, 2-3; Lakers, 1-4

The Greyhounds went into sudden-death overtime to defeat the Pistons, 12-11. Jeff Bilke scored eight points for the winners, and teamed with Craig Schoendienst, scored all the points in overtime. Guy Dixon paced the Pistons with five points. It was the Greyhounds' first victory.

The Lakers remained unbeaten with a 23-10 win over the Bobcats. Chris Skinner had 11 points for the winners, and Ed Duarte, four. Craig Knight was most of the Bobcat offense with six.

Peanut Standings — Lakers, 5-0; Pistons, 3-2; Bobcats, 1-4; Greyhounds, 1-4

Cowboys pull within one of Mats

Livermore High set up a Thursday freshman showdown with Granada, by defeating Monte Vista yesterday, 49-34 in EBAL basketball.

The victory gives the Cowboys an 8-2 league record, just one game behind the league leading Matadors.

Granada and Livermore meet Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Cowboy gym.

Livermore won yesterday on an 18-point performance by John Bacaleda. Teammates Dick Patterson and Rick Yawornisky scored eight each. Yawornisky also pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds.

Jim Novakes scored 14 for Monte Vista.

The city council's big opportunity

Floyd Mori is still one gigantic step from vacating his mayoralty and council posts in favor of that State Assembly seat, but there are those impatient souls already prepared to select this or that individual for Mori's municipal office. Pleasanton and its government would be better served if the council were to move with great care in any changes to be made within that city panel.

State law gives the council 30 days after the resignation of one of its members to thereupon make an appointment to that board. Common sense and an already tight municipal budget would indicate that the council should exercise its first option. But it must not be done by throwing a bunch of names in the pot, allowing each council member the right of first refusal and thereby winding up with one name which "no one seems to really object to." That could also be the individual who has the least to offer this important office.

Our own view is that the Pleasanton city council is in need of a seasoned, even tough s.o.b. who can add something of a teamster's talent to an otherwise well - balanced city board. We are blessed, both inside the council and its staff, with some very honest, fair - minded people. In this era of tough regional boards and frightening erosion of local government, we need something more than good intentions. This is one failing that almost every member of the city team has acknowledged to us, in private conversation over the last several months. The need will become even more evident should Floyd Mori quit that local post.

There would be the further need for the council to choose a new mayor as Mori's successor in that chair. This suggests a new round of in - fighting for that particular office. It would be hoped the council has matured beyond the level of its last two performances on that score. As chairperson for those Monday night sessions, the mayor must command the respect of the other council members and of those appearing before that board. As the community's chief magistrate, the mayor must also represent Pleasanton in a growing range of regional and state functions. Mayor Mori was just getting to where he was able to meet the challenge of that office, although he recently acknowledged that "it take 15 hours of my time each week" to do the job. The successor to that post must understand the sacrifice, and be prepared to make it.

The council which has served us so well in recent months, without any of the disruptive clashes which marked some of those prior panels, can serve us very well indeed by having the courage to reach out for the best talent available, without regard to personal ambition, past differences or private promises.

"I think you're getting his attention!"

Plans are being firmed up for a "great debate" Tuesday, February 25 between 15th Assembly District "finalists" Floyd Mori and Guy Puccio.

Tentative battleground is the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce meeting that day at Hap's Restaurant.

The campaign jockeying switches to Harvest Park that same evening when the League of Women Voters hosts a candidates night for Pleasanton and Amador school board hopefuls. Come and bring your questions, both loaded and otherwise!

While at Harvest Park, take a jog over to Walnut Grove and note the budding "Adventure Playground."

The Walnut Grovers held a "Pizza Night" fund raiser last week and parents and kids came in force . . . like $1,300 in receipts were rung up in the space of three hours. Seems parents and retinue formed a line that strung clear outside . . . as parents and teachers took orders and dished up the goodies.

And if you see the faculty and parents of Vintage Hills School salivating in anticipation, it's because they have a similar fund-raiser "night" coming up.

I cannot call it "30" for the week without passing along the story heard on a recent late night talk show.

Scene is a good 'ol hellfire and brimstone revival meeting where the preacher is giving the devil a real working over. Just as he is reaching a crescendo, a curvaceous young woman, caught up in the spirit, falls out of the balcony but manages to grab the railing with both arms.

The preacher, seeing the lovely's disadvantageous position, shouts, "And if any one of you men dare look up that woman's skirts, a bolt of thunder will smite thee!

At which point a wily old fellow seated directly under the woman places a hand over his right eye and says, "Well, I believe I'll take a chance with the left eye!"

. . . doesn't it deserve at least a "5" on the meter!

Hindsight/Foresight

The basis of assaults

Our judicial and legislative branches must take positive steps quickly to stem the rash of sexual assaults on women and, at the same time, prevent the atmosphere for revenge slayings.

This concern comes as a direct result of the demonstration held by a women's group in San Francisco last week, during which several were taken into custody by police, and the later challenging of Governor Edmund Brown, Jr. at a press conference.

The "cause celebre" of the demonstration was Inez Garcia, a young woman who openly admits to killing a man she says sexually assaulted her. The woman is presently incarcerated pending further trial proceedings.

Those demonstrating last week want Ms. Garcia to go free on bail pending final disposition of her case. This was more forthrightly stated later when a woman, purportedly a news photographer, challenged Gov. Brown during a conference attended by representatives of newspapers throughout the state.

This writer believes that we live in such a permissive society today one is not totally safe even when in his own home. If we are to believe statistics on crime, the number of sexual assaults continues to climb.

In order to try and find an answer to why this crime is committed (with victims many times never reporting incidents), we must look at the attitudes prevalent in today's society.

We live in a society where sex is a very saleable commodity. View an evening's worth of television commercials, peruse books at a bonafide magazine stand or thumb through the movie ads in a major newspaper and you'll realize how much sex is used to sell everything from soap to passenger vehicles.

Take a look at some of the paper racks on street corners in major cities and you'll see some of the most unadulterated smut imaginable, mixed in amongst the legitimate daily newspapers.

If one is "into" the porno scene, there is a vast array of booklets, movies and devices within easy reach . . . in large cities and small.

The topless bars, stage "reviews", even the so-called respectable establishments that feature scantily-dressed females, are very much available to young and old alike. At least they are not forced in front of those who have loftier pursuits.

This is a society, too, where the family unit, marriage, the so-called "old-fashioned" ideals are being challenged or ignored more than ever before.

This, then, is the backdrop to the Inez Garcia cases, or the ones such as occurred about a year ago in Southern California where a young woman is alleged to have shot to death her attacker when he returned to her home.

Laws and procedures must be enacted whereby the accused assailant will receive justice, but not from the barrel of a .45 in the hands of a distraught victim or pretend victim.

To condone a murder, such as in the Inez Garcia case, would be a dangerous precedent. To do so would open the way to all manner and form of "revenge."

At what point does a casual relationship that turns into consenting sex relations become rape? Perhaps when an argument flares.

round the town

What's the new governor REALLY like? Well, if a private conference (shared with just 285 other editor-publishers) is any indication of the man, we can report that Governor Jerry Brown is — 1. Nimble by lip and by leg; 2. Quick to fire back at his detractors; 3. Ready to swap quips with the best of them.

The annual gathering of California's newspaper publishers was unique this time around in that the governor of the State of California did not respond to the traditional invitation to participate in the black - tie banquet which annually highlights that assembly. "I don't like banquets, and I don't really think all of you want to sit there and watch me eat," he replied to that particular jab about his absence.

He was no less direct in replying to other questions tossed from that audience of newspaper leaders. On the subject of his veto for a $1 million student union building for Sonoma State College — "They don't need a one million dollar lounge. Let 'em lounge around those Sonoma hills."

As to why his inner cabinet seems to be drawn entirely from the under - 35 group, and many of them from the fringes of established society — "Are they? I guess you're right. It's probably because most of the people I have known and worked with are under 35. But I want to assure you I am getting acquainted with a great number of those over 50, including the present gathering."

And to one long - winded questioner who attached the usual set of suspicions to his query, Brown cut him short with — "Just what exactly is your question? I suspect the problem is really the question, so now where are we?" And so it went. If it says anything for the man's performance, most of that assembly of over - 50, Republicanized publishers gave the young governor a standing ovation at the conclusion of his free - swinging press conference. In another year or so we should all know if Jerry Brown can follow his own fast - stepping entrance. One thing for sure, nobody will ever call him "Jerry Junior" again in any of the state's newspaper columns.

The convention of California Newspaper Publishers (we squeezed it in between Mardi Gras events at home) was noteworthy in one other aspect. The "mechanical display" prepared by the trade for our enlightenment looked very much like a series of closed - circuit television studios. That's the new thrust in newspaper composition. It's all done with tubes. Small tv screens set up in front of each keyboard, for each reporter's production of that day's big story.

No more long rolls of brownish paper trailing through the typewriter. As a matter of fact we've been on clean white sheets of 8 1-2 by 11 copy paper for some time now. So the computer can read the words, dear. Soon no paper at all. Just a tv screen. Bang out a paragraph or two. Watch the little white ball bounce along the lines to search out your errata. Then press a "release" button, and ZAP! There goes those graphs. God and the readership help you if the lead was all butched up, or forgotten. There is no tomorrow, and not much more forgiveness, in the new computerized newspapers.

All the better to serve you, deary. Pretty soon we'll be so fast you won't need that 6 o'clock news on the telly. Newspapers are moving onward and upward, no matter what.

Some times we are already ahead of the field. Like the Sunday R.T. column which provided insight on the perils of the metropolitan dailies. Time Magazine came out with much the same info in its Feb. 10 edition. Page 49. But don't forget, you read it here first. Or at least the juiciest parts.

There are also some fascinating Monday - afternoon comments arising out of the 15th Assembly district special election. Who won, and why. One inescapable fact is that only two newspapers in the entire 15th District had the courage to offer their readers an endorsement from that large field of 15 hopefuls. The Independent threw it's weight behind Bill Vandenburgh, who finished well, but not well enough; The Times backed Floyd Mori.

The Hayward Daily Review Publications, including its Fremont - Union City and Livermore (Tri Valley) outlets, chose to sit out that election, giving the big chain's endorsement to not one of those 15 candidates, eleven of whom were from the Hayward area. The Independent had given Guy Puccio a small boost in that first round, although it would be quite a turn - about for that champion of Democratic Party issues and candidates to now suggest to its sizeable following that Republican Puccio deserves the nod over Democrat Mori. Might be an even bigger flip - flop for The Independent to now find kind things to say about "that awful freeway booster" — the incumbent mayor of Pleasanton.

The Valley Times and Pleasanton Times will surprise no one by sticking with Floyd Mori. It was a winning team the first time around. No reason to expect any change in that March 4 finale.

We didn't do near so good in those Mardi Gras sweepstakes. It was a short reign. Long live King Walt, and Queen Peggy, too. But how in the world can we break the news to Kaiser Wilhelm?? Can't stand to see a grown dachshund cry.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Probably the Sierra Club is one of the more worthwhile organizations in the United States, its ideals lofty and dedicated to the betterment of the human race and its environment, its objectives modeled after those which evolved more than a century ago from the mind of Henry David Thoreau.

There is something in the idea of having time stand still which appeals to all of us and certainly I am no exception.

I well remember the days when a wriggling snake of a8; asphalt and concrete writhed and twisted its way from Mission San Jose to Livermore, a tortured, well worn ribbon which detached a tentacle at Calaveras Road and sent it slithering through the hills behind Pleasanton and through Dublin to the village of Walnut Creek.

The drive through the canyon and over Mission Pass took about an hour from the bay plain to Livermore and probably a couple of hours to Walnut Creek where things got no better when we turned northwest toward Concord and the lofty Antioch Bridge where acrobatic motorists crossed the Sacramento—San Joaquin delta on the way to Sacramento, Red Bluff or, perhaps, Corning.

There was a certain bucolic beauty to the journey if a man had time and you can bet your sweet Post Toasties if we didn't have the time we had better stay home or make it available.

We drive, in the springtime, through hills which were lush with fresh and tender wild barley, through groves of dark oaks and then the orchard lined byway just south of Danville after having paused at the gasoline station which was the heart and soul of Dublin to refill our fuel tanks and replenish the supply of water in panting radiators.

On the way to Walnut Creek we passed, without thinking too much about it, that magnificent monument to the Sierra Club's first big defeat in court, the Sunol Water Temple.

Yep, my friends, the first time the Sierra Club was knocked back on its legal Post toasties was by the City of San Francisco in the days when this century was just getting out of its teens and horseless carriages had graduated from their original humble status to full fledged automobiles. (Which is, when a man thinks about it, just another way of saying horseless carriage.)

The city of San Francisco went high into the Sierra Nevada in search of water, selecting a mountain locked granite bowl as the spring from which its hundreds of thousands of residents would drink and constructed a dam there to hold that pristine water supply.

Hetch-Hetchy became a battle cry for the members of the Sierra Club, a rallying point for its members who had, until that time, confined their activities to climbing mountains, clearing trails and saving a few groves of Giant Sequoias, all highly admirable and considerably less controversial ventures.

When the club tied into The City's favorite project the road became rougher and considerably less pleasant. The City needed water and wanted the best available and the club wanted desparately to preserve that remote glacial valley.

Of course The City won and when the construction crews had finished their job — a job which saved the economy in Livermore during the depth of the depression by the way — San Francisco had constructed one of the finest water systems in the world and everyone except Sierra Club leadership and a few high living chipmunks were happy with the results.

That was if not the first the most impressive of the Sierra Club's suits and equally misdirected as some being brought to court by the group, which has grown to monsterous numbers, today.

I am among many people who are puzzled and angered by some of the actions taken recently by the club, though thoroughly appreciative of some of their projects in the past.

I can understand their attempt to preserve the Hetch Hetchy valley although that remote granite bowl has probably been seen by few people except San Francisco employes before and after the big flap in the Twenties.

So too can I understand and even cheer their campaigns which saved from destruction groves of priceless trees and may have prevented the extinction of both the coastal redwood groves and the giant Sequoias of the Sierra Nevada.

Certainly there are mountaineers who are alive today because they benefitted from Sierra Club instruction in climbing techniques and outdoor survival.

All of which makes me wonder why an as yet unconfirmed rumor indicates the Sierra Club has turned its attention from saving redwood groves, mountain valleys and human lives to perpetuating a death trap between Hayward and Dublin on Interstate 580.

Told last weekend the Sierra Club contemplated such a suit I found the news almost unbelieveable and the action, if indeed the club plans to launch court action, inexcuseable.

First, the reconstruction and widening of Interstate 580 is entirely out of bounds for the club. I could understand such action if a major highway was planned, for instance, through Tioga Pass, Tuolumne Meadows or a similar pristine and relatively undisturbed alpine valley.

But Dublin Canyon is one hell of a way from pristine or undisturbed, relatively or otherwise and is completely out of, or should be, the club's range of interests.

Just as Bill Apperson's land use — when that land use affects no one except himself and a large colony of field mice — is none of the Sierra Club's business, so is the widening of Interstate 580.

In the case of Apperson, I can get angry in his behalf, but hardly excited. After all, it is Bill being hurt, not me.

Interstate 580 is another matter. Let that highway job be postponed and it may be my blood, or that of someone I love, spilled on that blighted stretch of highway.

For that reason I wish the club would return to its granite valleys and mind its own damn business and I find some sense of relief when I pass the temple and find evidence it does not always win.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

After subtracting 2,800-billion gallons of water per day used to turn the turbines of the hydroelectric industry, hydrologists calculate that about 1,800 gallons of water per day per person were used in the United States in 1970 for domestic, industrial, rural and irrigation activities. The World Almanac notes that this means about 370-billion gallons of water were pumped, piped or diverted each day.

You and I live at the bottom of a great ocean of air that surrounds the earth and that extends upward for hundreds of miles. We call it the atmosphere.

We could not live without it and the oxygen it contains.

It keeps the earth's temperature from becoming too hot or too cold. It also keeps out some harmful energy from the sun.

The atmosphere is made up mostly of nitrogen and oxygen. But there are also small amounts of other gases present, too.

There is always some water vapor and dust in it, too.

The earth holds the atmosphere to it by the pull of gravity, otherwise it would drift off into space.

The atmosphere is made up of different layers. The bottom one, the troposphere, holds most of the air living things breathe.

The higher above the earth you go, the thinner the atmosphere becomes until it gradually fades into interplanetary space.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first younster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/O this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect more than is reasonable from a situation where you share an interest. What can be gained is very limited.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The uncertainty you'll feel prior to a discussion you'll be having with an associate will vanish once the talk begins.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your goals will be a bit fuzzy early in the day. Some valuable time will be wasted. Later, you'll double-step to get on target.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a tendency today to cater to your whims in spite of what your common sense tells you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't misinterpret motives of those who love you and are concerned to see your interests protected. They want what's good for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll spare yourself from making a poor decision today when you forget about the if's and concentrate on the here-and-now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You won't be as sharp as you should be in material dealings with friends but you'll behave in a practical manner with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Put your trust in one who has proven loyal to you, not in one who may be able to do something for you in the future.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South played brilliantly (at least he thought he had), quickly (everyone agreed to that), and with conspicuous lack of success.

He rose with dummy's jack of hearts, plunked his ace on East's queen, took the club finesse and ran off six club tricks. Then he led a heart and hoped for the best. The best did not eventuate. West had discarded one spade, one heart and two diamonds. He cashed the last three hearts and led a diamond to give his partner tricks with the ace and king.

South wanted to know why North had bid three notrump, instead of dropping the bidding at two notrump or signing off at three clubs.

North replied, "If I had known I was playing with a butcher, I would have bid three clubs."

We wouldn't go so far as to say that South had butchered the hand, but we do know that a really enterprising player would have brought home nine tricks. At trick two he would have led the queen of spades. If West covered he would take dummy's ace, come back to his hand with the second spade and then finesse the club. If West ducked, South's queen of spades would hold the trick. Now the club finesse would be taken.

This would have led to a substantial set if either finesse had lost, but South wasn't doubled and should have taken the chance.

What do you do now?

A — Bid six spades. North is showing second round club control and by inference denying first round diamond control so you settle for six.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs your partner has bid five diamonds over your four spades. What do you do now?

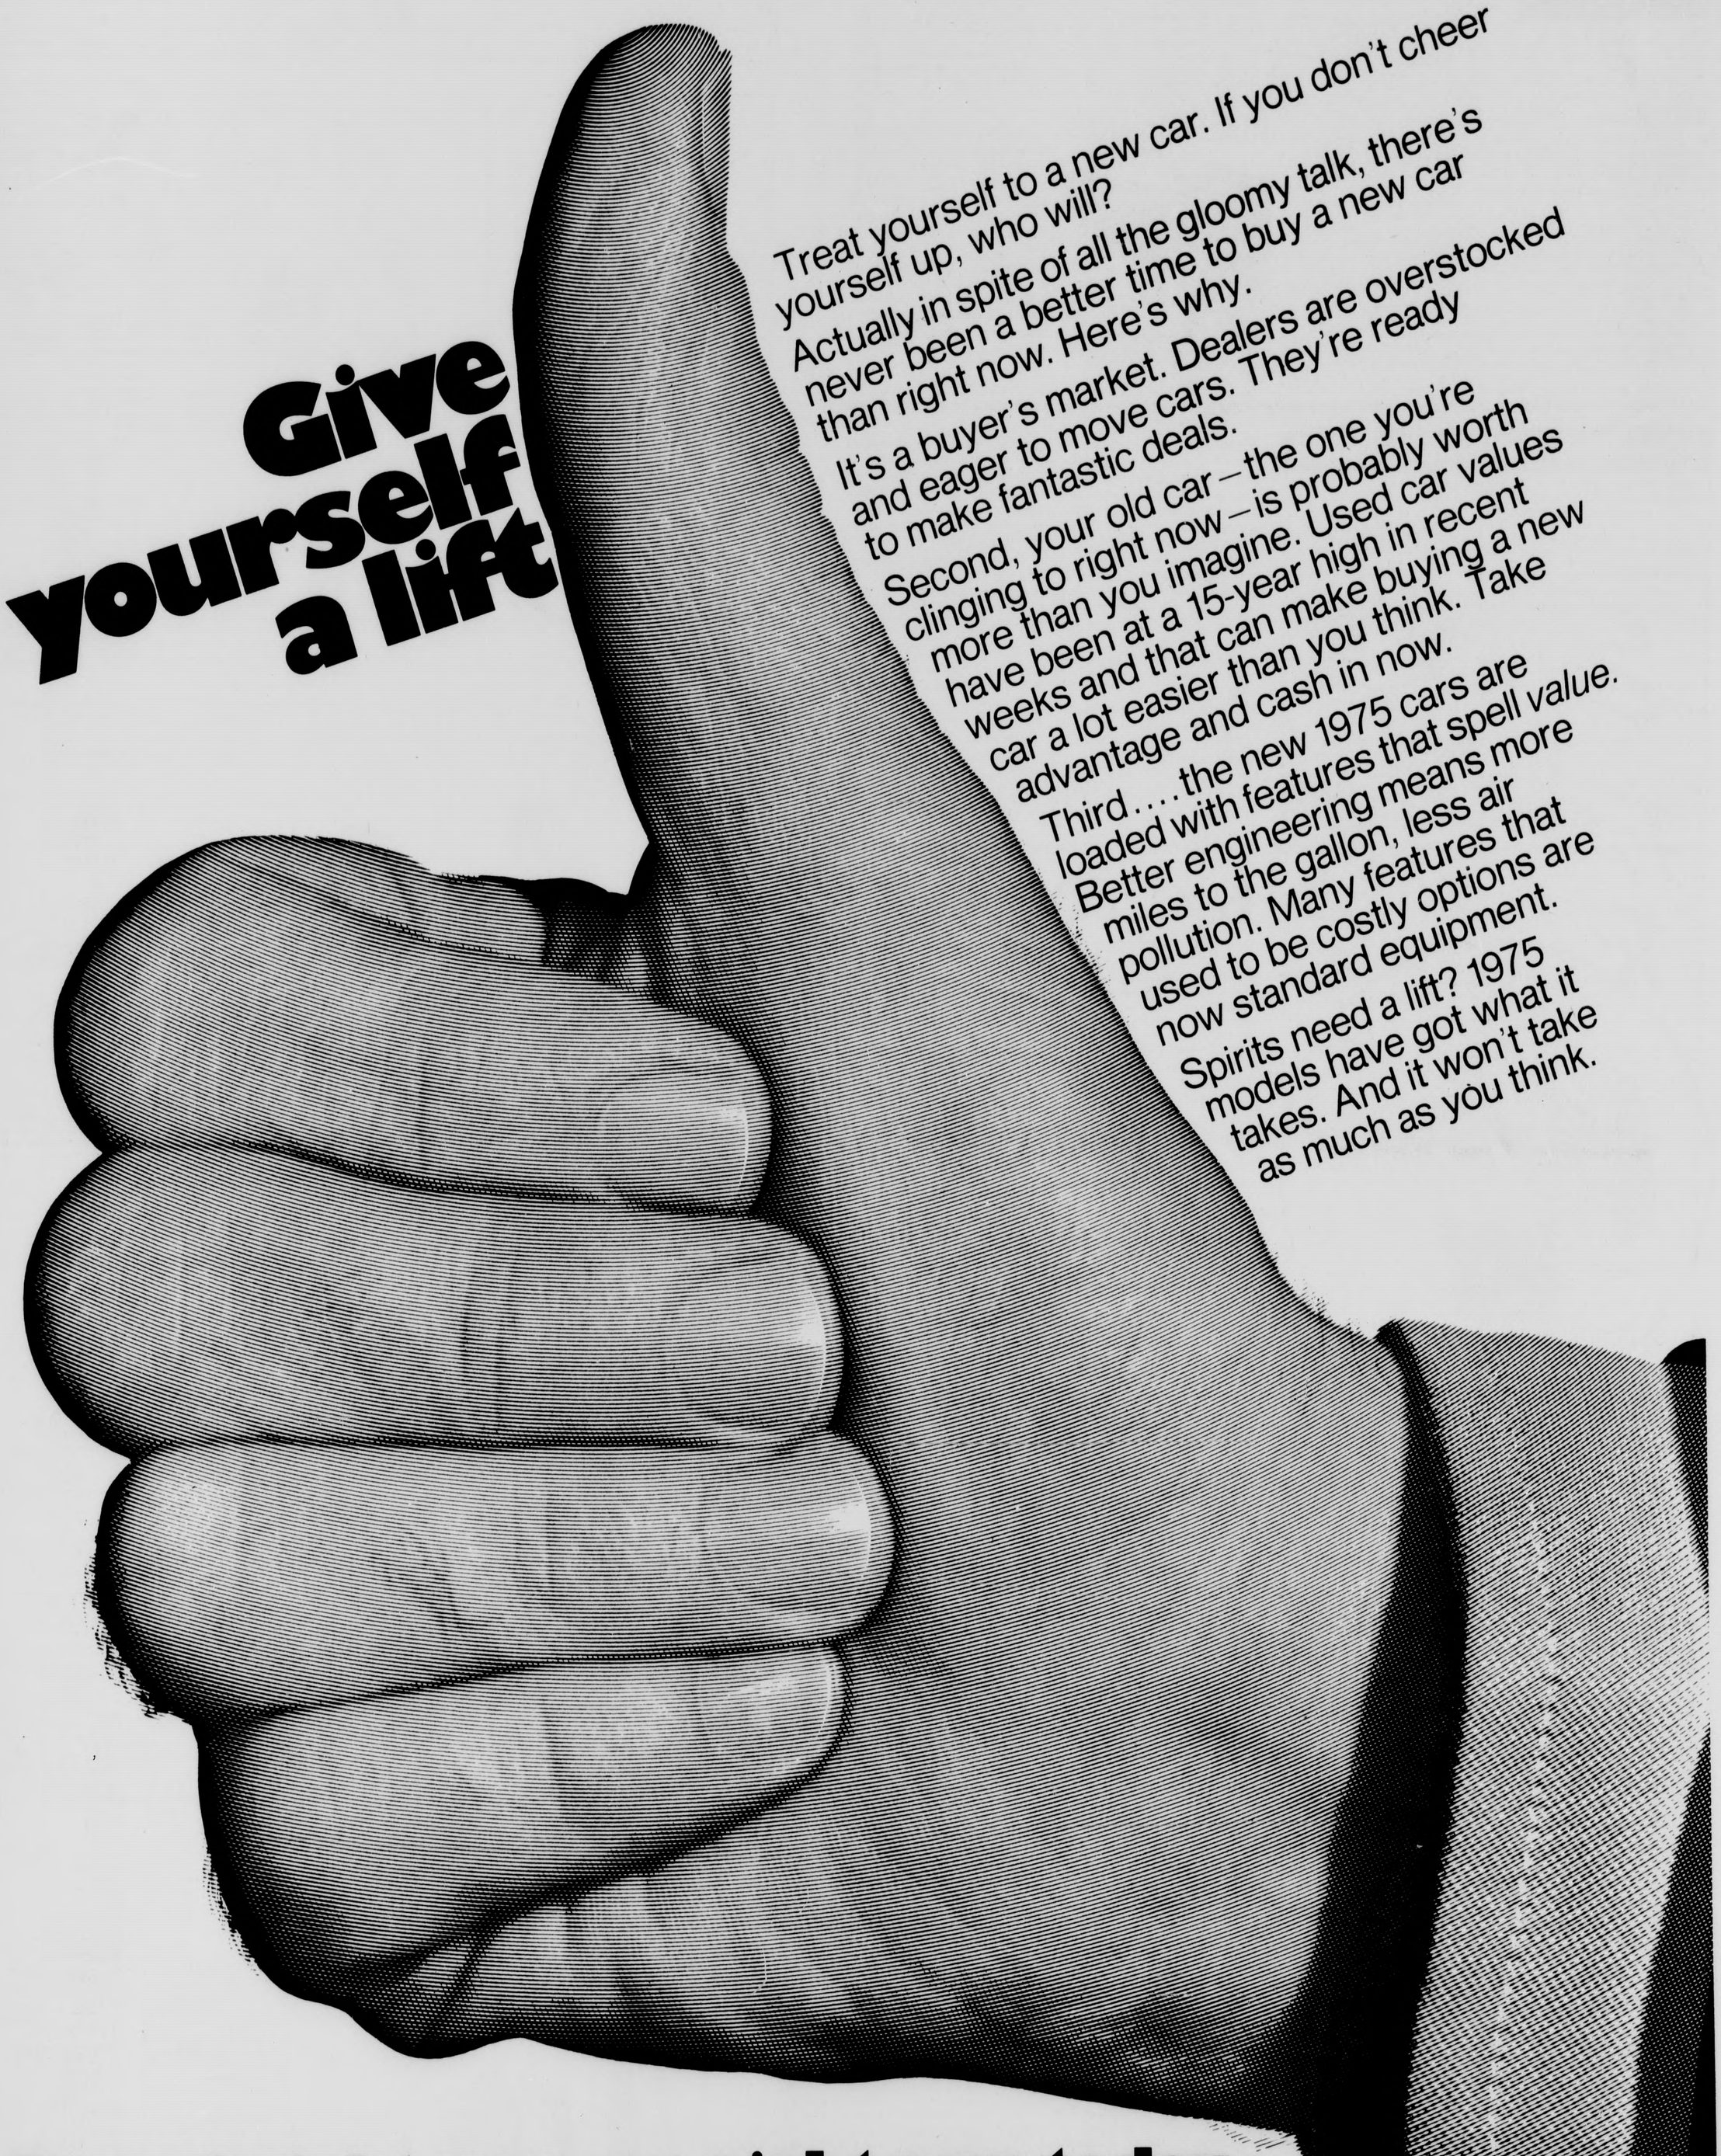
CARNIVAL by Dick Turner

"Indeed you're not making what you're worth, Hadley!"

"And your job has many other benefits, too!"

SIDE GLANCES by Gill Fox

"I wonder if this could be someone's sneaky solution to the overpopulation problem . . . A FREEWAY WITH NO EXITS!"



Treat yourself to a new car. If you don't cheer yourself up, who will?

Actually in spite of all the gloomy talk, there's never been a better time to buy a new car than right now. Here's why.

It's a buyer's market. Dealers are overstocked and eager to move cars. They're ready to make fantastic deals.

Second, your old car—the one you're clinging to right now—is probably worth more than you imagine. Used car values have been at a 15-year high in recent weeks and that can make buying a new car a lot easier than you think. Take advantage and cash in now.

Third....the new 1975 cars are loaded with features that spell value. Better engineering means more miles to the gallon, less air pollution. Many features that used to be costly options are now standard equipment.

Spirits need a lift? 1975 models have got what it takes. And it won't take as much as you think.

Buy a bright new car, right now, today.

CAREFULLY CONTROLLED NOZZLE HELPS SCIENTISTS RESEARCH TURBINES
LLL researchers are looking for the most efficient possible design for turbines and nozzles.

Geothermal power efficiency boosted

A new test facility at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory is enabling researchers to explore improved turbine designs for converting geothermal energy to electricity with up to 60 per cent greater efficiency than is possible now.

The first of five test chambers within the facility has begun operation, and the remainder are scheduled to begin operation during the next six months. The total facility, costing over $250,000, will create a uniquely versatile research tool for advancing geothermal technology.

"We have just begun working with the first test unit, which serves somewhat the same function in nozzle and turbine blade development as a wind tunnel does in aircraft design," accordingg to Dr. RoX Austin, project leader.

"Our aim is to tailor nozzles and turbine blades specifically for harnessing the total flow of liquid and steam from a geothermal well. Today's geothermal installations in Mexico and New Zealand, for instance, use only the steam fraction to generate electricity. They discard the liquid."

This hot, pressurized liquid contains more than one - third of the available energy, Austin said. It is extraction of the energy from the total geothermal flow, using equipment designed specifically for that purpose, that is expected to boost efficiency by up to 60 per cent.

The test facility will be operated as part of the Laboratory's Total Flow geothermal resource development program, and will be available to non - Laboratory researchers as well.

The Livermore Total Flow program is operating on a budget of about $2.8 million this fiscal year and involves about 40 persons.

It is focused primarily on the most challenging of geothermal brine deposits, the hot (570 F.) brines of the region near the southern tip of the Salton Sea area of Southern California. These brines contain up to 30 per cent dissolved salts and minerals — about 10 times the salinity of seawater.

Livermore researchers believe that a successful Total Flow system developed for this high - temperature, high - salinity resource can be used for lower temperature, less saline brines, which are more widespread.

The newly operating experimental chamber enables researchers to test equipment in mixtures of clean water and steam at pressures up to 400 psi and temperatures as high as 445 F.

Four additional experimental facilities with complementary purposes are now under construction or in final design stages at the Laboratory. All should be completed by summer. They are intended to resolve or reduce in the laboratory problems that will be encountered on a larger scale in the field. The four are as follows:

1. Scheduled for operation in March is a facility for developing sophisticated now - experimental measurement techniques and equipment necessary for field studies of the characteristics of geothermal brines and steam at potential power plant sites - characteristics like droplet size, fluid quality and flow rate.

Advanced techniques to be examined include optical systems with high - speed cameras and lasers for measuring steam quality and ultrasonic and electromagnetic methods for measuring flow rate and droplet size.

2. A station for performance testing of industrially designed turbines will begin operation in March. The main purpose of this will be to evaluate turbine efficiency as it varies with different mixtures, pressures and temperatures of liquid and vapor.

3. A chamber for measuring turbine blade and nozzle erosion by the constant stream of fast - moving water droplets is scheduled to be ready in June.

4. By mid - summer, a second turbine test facility should be in operation.

Livermore stake-out nabs thieves in act

LIVERMORE — An early Thursday morning stake - out paid off for Livermore police after three juveniles allegedly were found breaking into an East Avenue home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kline, 3317 East Ave., reported burglaries on Jan. 10, 13, 30, and Feb. 4, so officer Al Faria spent Thursday morning observing the home. Delma Kline, a travel agent, was inside the home waiting.

At 9:45 three young men approached the home, waited till a neighbor drove away, walked to the porch and knocked.

When Kline failed to answer the door the trio went through a fence - gate adjacent to the garage and unlocked the garage by reaching through a "dog's - hole" entrance, according to police.

Faria stepped into the garage to find one of the youths eating candy removed from a garage refrigerator.

One lad said he'd "come to get fishing poles," but later confessed to having burglarized the Kline's home on four occasions with other youths, according to the report.

This was the first time for his current accomplices.

On other occasions liquor, food, and cash had been taken, according to police.

The youth was taken to Juvenile Hall at his guardian's request while police apprehended the fourth suspect and searched for yet another.
